Smith's plurality, 745.

This, approximately, is the result of Tuesday's election in Arizona, based on incomplete returns and estimates for the districts not reported says the Republican. Apache county has not yet reported, but it is safe to say that Fowler's plurality in that county will be more than 125 rather than less. In the remainder of the counties the returns are more or less complete. It is apparent at a glance that Smith is still invincible in southeastern Arizona. The diminished vote for him in Graham is easily accounted for. It is found in Gila county, where many Graham county voters are employed, either on the railroad or in connection with the government works in the Tonto basin. The vote in Gila has been greatly augmented by cause of the activity at the reservoir site. In Cochise county, while the result is not a great deal short of the anti-election claims made for Smith, there are some surprising returns. Bisbee and Douglas give a greatly increased democratic vote. Tombstone, hitherto almost solidly democratic, was almost an even break. Fowler also made great gains at Benson and at several small precincts over the republican vote of two years ago. Smith's greatest strength, was with the migratory population of Bisbee and Douglas and with the Mormons of Graham county. One of his former banner counties, Mohave, which never before gave him less than 300 majority, has fallen off two-thirds.

It is especially noticeable that, with the exception of Graham, the counties which have a permanent population—that is, a citizenship financially interested in the welfare of the territory, are for Fowler. Of the seven counties carried by Fowler, but two, Apache and Coconino, have been classed as republican one year with another.

The figures in the above table are made up from telegrams to the territorial committee and special dispatches to The Republican.

COCHISE COUNTY.

The count in Cochise county gives approximately 650 plurality for Smith for congress.

GRAHAM COUNTY.

The revised figures on Graham county, with several precincts yet to hear from, indicate that Smith's majority in this county will not exceed 350, and it may be less than 300.

GILA COUNTY.

With three small precincts to hear from, Smith's plurality in Gila county is 327. The complete returns will increase his plurality to 375. The democratic county ticket is elected, with two exceptions. Fisk, republican, is elected recorder by a large majority. Butler, republican, gets the long term as supervisor.

MOHAVE COUNTY.

A special from Kingman says: Although Kingman, the county seat, is normally democratic by three to one, it gave Smith but 10 plurality. Other precincts in the county have brought Smith's total plurality to 111. Four precincts yet to hear from will probably reduce the plurality to less than one hundred.

YAVAPAI COUNTY.

The Journal-News says: The returns given below are from 46 precincts in Yavapai county, there remaining less than ten to hear from.

Delegate to congress—Smith 1414, Fowler 1516.

Councilman—Looney, 1653, Haggott 1145.

Representative—Meeks 1337, Perkins 1433, Hull 1384, Anderson 1379, Bradley 1256, Biles 1216.

MARICOPA COUNTY.

Fowler carried Maricopa by 258.

The following officers are elected by the following majorities: Council—Bark, 183. House—Kruger, democrat, 237; Pickrel, republican, 216; Stanford, democrat, 101; Pomeroy, democrat, 29.

Sheriff—Cook and Walker tied, Cook is incumbent. Treasurer—Haden, democrat, 402. Recorder—Leonard, democrat, 132. Probate Judge—

COCONINO COUNTY.

The Republicans Win the Majority of Their Ticket—A Full Vote Polled.—Two Precincts to be Heard From.

The election, while exciting, passed off without anything occurring to mar the day. The vote was an increased one over last year. There were something over 1100 votes cast in the county.

Flagstaff cast 606 votes as against 598 in 1902. Williams cast 387, as against 392 two years ago.

The republicans elected were John H. Page for the council. H. C. Hibben for recorder. Harry Henderson for sheriff. A. E. Douglass for probate judge. R. H. Cameron for supervisor. F. O. Polson for surveyor. E. E. Ball for surveyor. J. S. Anderson for superintendent of schools.

The successful democrats were C. A. Neal for assembly. H. F. Ashurst for district attorney. Thomas Devine for treasurer.

The precincts of Fredonia and Tuba have not been heard from in detail. A telegram from Fredonia states that 19 votes were cast and 17 were for the republican ticket, thus adding that number to each republican candidate and Tuba is expected to increase the vote for the republican ticket.

Phillips, republican, 404. County School Superintendent—Fulton, democrat, 589. Supervisors—Steward, republican, 193, Clanton, democrat, 121. Justices of Peace—Phoenix; Burnett, democrat, 189; Johnstone, Rep. 74.

Kibbey concedes Smith's election by 700.

PIMA COUNTY.

All precincts in Pima county have reported except three. Fowler is 160 ahead of Smith, and the remaining precincts will increase this plurality to about 200. The entire republican county ticket is elected, including members of the legislature. Dickerman, republican, is also elected joint councilman for Pima and Santa Cruz counties.

SANTA CRUZ COUNTY

Complete returns are in from all precincts in Santa Cruz county. Fowler has a plurality of 83. The whole republican ticket is elected.

YUMA COUNTY.

Smith is 32 ahead of Fowler, with Cibola, Mohawk, Harrisburg and Empire to hear from. It is thought Smith will lead in this county by 50 to 75, although republican gains elsewhere indicate that Fowler may possibly carry the county.

NAVAJO COUNTY.

The democrats were mainly successful in Navajo, the republicans electing the sheriff, C. I. Houck and treasurer, F. J. Watron. F. X. Woods was defeated for the council much to the regret of all good citizens. There is no explanation of the democratic success in Navajo.
